The only struggle worthy of man's unceasing sacrifice -- the struggle to be free. -- Lyndon B. Johnson.

I was in Lyndon Johnson's Hill Country the past weekend, at Luckenbach and through Kerrville and Fredricksburg and Hye and Johnson City. And perhaps it was the incredible weather of this Leap Year Day weekend, dry as it is, but I saw better what brought Johnson back to his ranch when the rancor in Washington simply filled his craw.

There is a pleasant remoteness about the area. Isolated is not the word; remote seems more attainable.

There are the usual ranches and rocks and hills. Maybe it is the atmosphere born of stability among those people, those ranchers; maybe it is flat hills scattering the horizon almost like mesas of the deeper Southwest, but somehow more civilized, more comfortable.

I prefer more trees and greenery of a rainier clime, but the climate in that area, particularly for the native used to the spare growth of stunted trees and grasses better for small animals than cattle, is best described as pleasant.

It causes the mind to wander. It allows time to contemplate the pointlessness of so much we do, all of us. It urges one to examine the qualities of men who deal with blunt nature, who leave such a place but yearn to come back.

Lyndon Johnson had a classic view of his role in politics. He said he was "a man, an American and a Democrat" in that order. The Hill Country landscape and his personal experience among its youth found his priorities in order.

He would have appreciated the idea of Luckenbach's approach to putting down commercialized Americanism. And he was not beyond making a buck. He and Lady Bird made several million of them several times.

But the Hill Country experience I sensed followed the folksy line of a Lyndon Johnson or Ben Franklin, who said:

"Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

And it follows the views of another rustic, Thomas Paine, who roused this country to revolution:

"Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

I think our politicians are reassessing public service out of broad necessity. Everything public has been mediocre to terrible in the news since late Vietnam and Watergate. Had the same attitude prevailed, had the same corporate excesses prevailed, had the salaries and accomodations of a volunteer army been what they are today, we simply would not be a nation.

Lyndon Johnson came out of the Hill Country to be a strong president, as history would have it, but he met the struggles of U. S. cities and he met the trap of Vietnam. And the resources were not enough for him or anybody else to deal with revolution in our cities and an Asian revolution we chanced to miscalculate.

Little, miniscule wonder he flew back to drive roads like those leading to Luckenbach and the Hill Country taste and logic which puts our Declaration of Independence ahead of all the imported clap-trap passing for our 200th's memorabilia.

I am a far more dry-eyed American because I see daily greater concern for reputation, financial condition and comfort than concern for the disorder and copout this nation passes for belief in itself.

I think upon the risks and rewards for failure in this nation and wonder at how well we do when so many are bent upon proving doubt and consmanship superior to whatever really keeps us going.

The Hill Country reveals some of the "rocks and rills" of Americana. Lyndon Johnson knew. It was in his bones.

I am an unabashed American who knows the best ideas of Western civilization work. Our Founding Fathers' minds created in idealism and compromise a document of sustaining flexibility

Ambulance Service To End

Both Cameron funeral homes have served notice to the city that as of June 15 they will no longer offer ambulance service, and offered their ambulances free to the city for its use. But Mayor Blake said ambulance service is not the city's business during discussion at Tuesday's city council meeting.

Council also discussed another controversial measure, that of a certain form sent to Cameron businessmen for rendering their school taxes, which Mayor Blake described as a "bombshell."

Blake read letters from Marek-Burns - Laywell and Green funeral homes which stated they would discontinue ambulance service in the city and outlying areas starting June 15. The letters stated the deadline should give the city time enough to come up with an alternate service.

MAYOR BLAKE SAID this was not strictly a city problem, however he told council that if the city goes into the ambulance business, it may as well set up a city morgue, hire an embalmer and go into the funeral home business, since the city owns and maintains the cemetery, too.

Blake said there is no money in the budget for this purpose and "there is no way we can handle it." He suggested this might be a county problem rather than city since most of the calls are in the rural areas.

No action was taken and the matter was tabled.

School tax assessor - collector Theo Aschenbeck was on hand to answer questions about a form he has sent to local businessmen for rendering their school taxes.

Mayor Blake said he has had numerous calls from businessmen who are upset about the form. Blake said there is no way a person can answer all the questions on the form without perjuring himself. Blake said it is the job of the council to "preserve the tranquility" of Cameron, and said the form has the effect of a "bombshell."

HE ASKED ASCHENBECK what happens if the person does not fill out the form, and the tax collector said it is his job to render the taxes for them, but he has no way of making them comply with filling out the form.

Aschenbeck said he has found "much emotion" connected with the form, but using the form "is not a big thing." He said he is duty bound to ask people to render their taxes but he has no way of finding the value of intangible property if not rendered.

City Atty. Ed Magre said the council could not act in what is strictly a school board matter and he suggested that council members speak to school board members and pass on complaints about the form.

Mayor Blake said the city's industrial foundation is trying to attract business to the community and he didn't think the form was a good way of doing so.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, council agreed to let Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. repair streets to be cut in the company's project of burying some of its cable on West Main. The company's franchise calls for it to make necessary street repairs.

Council also heard a report from Mrs. Glenda Moseley on the Cameron Community Center. She reported that the center is booked steadily by clubs and organizations, for parties and reunions, and commended the public on the care taken of the center. Council commended Mrs. Moseley for "a great job."

A date of April 6 was set for a public hearing on the proposed street assessment project in the vicinity of the housing units on 6th St. And council approved minute orders for the Texas Highway Department for its project of reconstructing 22nd St. and Industrial Road.

Complaints of garbage men flinging cans into the street and yards was turned over to St. Supt. Walter Wallace.

COUNCIL ALSO AGREED to open 9th St. at Vogelsang for a distance of 200 feet to allow access to property, and voted to close 18th St. between Central and Houston.

Police Chief Kent Butler reported that the threat of tickets has slowed down speeders considerably, but his department will continue to check motorists with radar to detect speeders.

Complaints about taxi service were also aired, with complaints of overcharging and dirty cabs. City Atty. Magre was directed to re-write the cab ordinance to take care of complaints. It was noted that if the taxis do not comply with the ordinance they can lose their licenses.

BUCKHOLTS STUDENTS IN GRADES K-12 are shown with a tree they planted on their campus Monday, which was designated Ecology Day at the school. The students planted trees and cleaned the campus, learning about ways to protect and beautify the environment. Trees were supplied by Forrest Green.

Revenue Sharing Extension Vital

AUSTIN

Comptroller Bob Bullock said Wednesday that if Congress doesn't extend the revenue sharing program, city halls and courthouses across Texas will have to close their doors or drastically increase local taxes to keep on providing the same level of services.

Bullock released a list showing the percentage tax increase each county and city would have to enact to replace revenue sharing funds they now receive.

For Milam County, the figure given is 31.2 percent; for Cameron, 40.2 percent; Rockdale, 25.9 percent; and Thorndale, 18.3 percent.

"Highfalutin debate on the pros and cons of revenue sharing doesn't mean a thing to the taxpayer," the Comptroller said. "The cold truth is that in most cities and counties, he'll have to pay at least 20 percent more in local taxes if the program ends."

The death of the program would also be a hardship on the state, Bullock added, noting that the Legislature would have to write a budget without the $100 million a year it could otherwise expect.

"But the real impact would be on the cities and counties that have received nearly $1 billion during the five-year life of the revenue sharing program," he said. "It's time for the state officials to worry about more than the state budget. We've got to start thinking about our county and city governments."

Bullock said a study by his office shows that inflation has gradually forced local officials to rely on revenue sharing as part of their operating budgets.

"A lot of people warned in the beginning that this would happen," Bullock said. "And they were right. But like it or not, a vote against revenue sharing at this point is most surely a vote to decrease local services or increase local taxes."

JP Rules On Tuesday Death

Death by natural causes was ruled by Justice of the Peace Jess Brock Tuesday in the death of a 53-year-old Cameron man, found in his trailer home by a relative Tuesday morning.

Clarence W. Weber, who had lived in Cameron for the past five years, was found dead in his trailer home which is parked at the Cameron Mobile Home Park on Second St.

Mann Is Semifinalist For White House Fellow

Robert L. Mann has been named as one of the 99 young men and women selected as Regional Semifinalists in the competition for 1976-77 White House Fellowships.

Mann, 31, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mann of Cameron and is presently acting director of the department of journalism at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Chosen from among 2,864 applicants, the candidates will next be evaluated by the President's Commission on White House Fellowship. Panels of distingushed community leaders in 11 cities from coast to coast will determine which of its candidates to designate as Regional Finalists.

The panels will interview the Regional Finalists during March, and the top 30-35 of these candidates will be selected as National Finalists, from among whom the Presidential Commission will nominate 14-19 White House Fellows to the President on May 24.

The White House Fellowship program was created in 1964 to provide outstanding young Americans with firsthand experience in the process of governing the nation.

In addition to their educational assignments with the Vice President and members of the Cabinet and the President's principal White House staff, the Fellows participate in an extensive program of 250-300 off-record seminar meetings with top government officials, scholars, journalists, and leaders from other segments of private life.

Leadership, intellectual and professional ability, and a commitment to community and nation are the broad criteria employed in the selection process.

UFO 'Playground'?...

A Cameronite reported what may be another Unidentified Flying Object the other day.

It seems Dr. A. E. Kruse and his wife saw a red light like a car brake light drifting down "three or four hundred yards" above the S. H. Richardson home in northeast Cameron.

Let Dr. Kruse tell it:

"It was brighter than an airplane light and not high enough. We stopped the car, turned off the motor and stepped out of the car to observe it. It was completely silent and continued slowly drifting northward at the same height. It was watched for 10 or more minutes, and at last it flared into a yellowish white light and disappeared."

Some other people saw the same light, Dr. Kruse reports, but were also unable to explain what they saw.

Which is to say UFO's are still around, if not alive or earthlike. We recall a similar report a few years ago by some people in the Clarkson area northeast of Cameron. They reported seeing a lighted object move down a rural road, apparently following the path of the road, then disppearing at an inexplicable speed and angle.

Which all says "we don't know the square root of outer space," let alone the inexplicables we see everyday on earth.

What Dr. Kruse saw a lot of people say doesn't exist. Something was there all right, something curious about us, something perhaps reconnoitering, something gathering information, or just cruising just at low level.

One guess for such sightings is that UFO's of extraterrestrial sources employ heat-seeking devices for homing in on other objects in air or on ground. It is possible they use solar energy and fly at lower levels during nightfall to conserve the energy stored until new light sources recharge their engines. While they patrol, they observe or just "play around" inhabited areas of earth.

Sci-Fi, science fiction, a distinct category of literature has numerous explanations. They are no better than ours.

Public School Week...

As usual, we suggest Milam Areans go to the public schools in their communities and find out what is new, if anything, and how students are progressing.

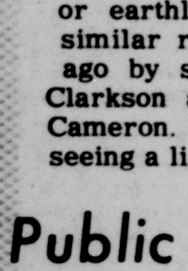
Public education is settling to basic resources after being the battleground or focal point for social change during the past decade.

Cameron's open house is tonight, Thursday, from about 6:30 to 9 in various buildings on the two campuses.

Similar open houses are scheduled in towns throughout the Milam area: Buckholts, Rockdale, Rosebud - Lott, Thorndale, Rogers, Milano, and beyond.

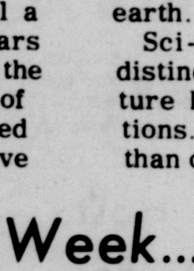
It's good to know what goes on in those buildings, as it is to know what goes on in students' heads.

A growing area always finds its schools important to its growth.



"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP



(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

DONATED BLOOD WOULD BE TAX DEDUCTIBLE

Rep. Edward I. Koch (N.Y.), ". . . I am concerned that the Nation has yet to develop a blood collection policy which will secure an adequate amount of blood for our medical needs. . .

"The FDA supports an all-volunteer approach to blood collection because it believes that blood-for-pay programs collect an inferior quality and even a dangerous type of blood. Rates of post transfusion hepatitis from commercial donations are 3 to 10 times higher than from voluntary donations. However, the Council on Wage & Price Stability recently opposed FDA's position as leading to highly priced transfusions and even critical shortages. The Council concluded that - - -

Surely, there must be instances where marginally inferior blood is preferable to no blood at all.

"I do not accept the proposition that we must choose between shortages of blood and supply of inferior quality blood. . .

"My bill, H.R. 582, would encourage middle-income wage earners to regularly and voluntarily donate blood by offering the tax incentive of a deduction of $25 the pint, with a limit of $125 per annum. Present IRS laws regards blood donation as one of "services" rather than of "property," thus denying the deduction. Is it not ironic that a $25 donation to the Red Cross is tax deductible, but a money deduction for having given of one's blood is not allowed?. . .

"There are some who are opposed to many of the decucations as loopholes and are wary of putting more in. I agree. I think we should get rid of the loopholes which soley benefit the rich and which give us no broader social benefit. We are getting something - - good red blood out of the veins of all people, whatever their income. A safe blood supply will decrease the danger and price of transfusions. . .

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Seventeen States have no laws regulating blood banks. As far back as 1970, the HEW Center for Disease Control reported 52,583 cases of serum hepatitis from contaminated blood collected under the blood-for-pay programs. Today, hepatitis from contaminated blood is no idle threat.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

A lot of people are wondering why we haven't made more progress on solar energy, and I think I know the answer.

Here's the situation: It's no doubt true the greatest source of heat in the entire universe is the sun. We talk about oil playing out and it's true -- eventually the earth is going to run dry of oil, man is going to pump it all out and the Arab shieks will have to go back to raising camels. But the sun, it's always there, and if it plays out, that's all she wrote anyway.

Now man has already discovered that you can heat a house, warm your bath water, and cool off in summer with solar energy. With a little more investment, say the price of one aircraft carrier or two sessions of Congress, solar energy could be perfected and become as commonplace as electricity or gas or running water.

But there's one scientific hitch that's holding the whole program up. Nobody's figured out how to master solar energy.

On the next clear day, go outside and look around. See that sunshine splattered all over everything? How are you going to get it to go through a meter? And if you can't get it to go through a meter, how're you going to charge for it?

Like it is, a man might go up on the roof of his house, capture the sun's rays and heat his home scot free. You know the economy is not going to stand for that.

Unless science can figure out a way to run solar heat through a meter, who's going to be interested in perfecting the stuff? Might as well try to charge for the use of gravity.

The only way I can figure out to get solar energy readily available to everybody is to lease the sun to a small group of far sighted people and let them charge royalty on every sunbeam that reaches the earth, with rates adjusted to see that the company gets fair compensation on cloudy days.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Bullock Warns Of More Local Taxes

Local tax bills may go up steeply for the same level of services if Congress refuses to extend the federal revenue sharing program, Comptroller Bob Bullock warns.

"The cold truth is that in most cities and counties, (the taxpayer) will have to pay at least 20 per cent more in local taxes if the program ends," Bullock said.

"Death of the program would also cost the state $100 million a year," the comptroller noted.

Bullock emphasized these points:

— Real impact would be on cities and counties which have received nearly $1 billion from revenue sharing during the five-year life of the program.

— Inflation has forced local officials gradually to rely on revenue sharing as part of their operating budgets.

"A vote against revenue sharing at this point is most surely a vote to decrease local services or increase local taxes," Bullock stated.

A study by the comptroller's staff concluded:

General federal revenue sharing accounts for 30 per cent or more of tax revenue in 68 counties, 20 to 30 per cent in 102 counties and up to 19.99 per cent in 84.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe said he opposes continued revenue sharing for states but considers the program necessary for cities and counties.

Water Fight Rages

In the face of a threatened lawsuit by the attorney general, Texas Water Rights Commission approved a controversial sale of water by Lower Colorado River Authority to cool generators of the South Texas Nuclear Project power plant.

TWRC ratified a contract between LCRA and STNP for up to 102,000 acre feet of Colorado River water a year at $10 an acre foot (as much as $56 million) over a 55-year period.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said the water does not belong to LCRA but to the state, and he will seek to enjoin the TRWC action in court. A state permit for sale of the same water would cost only $500.

San Antonio, Houston, Austin and Corpus Christi electric utilities are partners in the STNP which plans a nuclear-powered generating plant near Bay City. Project heads fear failure to go along with the water sale would bring on a prolonged legal battle with LCRA which would cost more in lost electricity purchases, alternate fuels and contruction inflation than the $56 million contract.

Pay Row Continuing

Texas school teachers served notice they will be pushing for legislation next year giving them salaries above the $12,524 national average.

A recent survey by the National Educational Association calculated the average Texas classroom teacher's pay at $11,373—$1,151 behind the national average and 24th among the states. The legislature last year raised starting pay from $6,600 to $8,000 for bachelor degree teachers and from $7,200 to $8,600 for master degree teachers.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court agreed to review a test case on whether a church camp in Hood County can be taxed.

In another new ruling, the high court declined to consider a Harris County man's challenge of the doctrine that, in most circumstances, governments are not responsible for paying damages on injuries caused by employee negligence.

A former Kerrville school teacher who lost his job because he wouldn't shave his beard six years ago won a $6,000 back pay award in an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The high court held Amarillo could not tax the residence of a church music minister.

Supreme Court judges agreed with the Houston Court of Civil Appeals that a stockholders suit against Robert L. Moody alleging fraud in an insurance companies merger must be tried.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Wichita County murder conviction because the defendant was not given 15 peremptory jury challenges.

A Wilbarger County man sentenced for delivering amphetamines won release in an appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals on finding the trial judge dismissed a jury which had been "deadlocked" only two hours.

An El Paso man won reversal of a life imprisonment sentence because the trial court refused to sever a multi-count indictment.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld a provision that Texas State Education Association members must affiliate with the National Education Association.

AG Opinions

Breakfast meetings of commissioners courts must be open to the public when public business is discussed there, Atty. Gen. Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

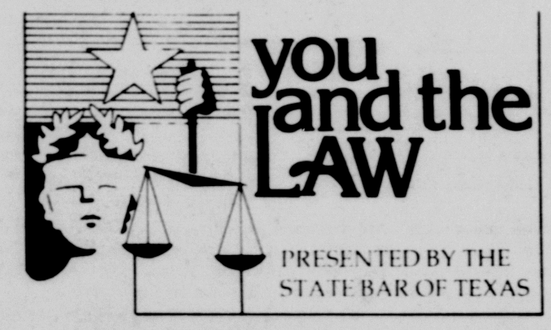
The federal privacy act does not apply in general to the Texas National Guard while in state status.

An institution of higher education is not required to adopt terms of the College Coordinating Board's policy statement on academic freedom.

Death of a limited partner does not necessarily prohibit renewal of a mixed beverage permit issued to the partnership.

Workmen's compensation coverage is fully applicable to persons in the state military forces, not withstanding any overlapping coverage.

A college may provide that terminated professors will receive either substantial notice or severance pay.



Q: I bought a pair of boots under a lay-away plan, but am unable to complete the payments. Can I demand a refund of my payments made so far?

A: No. There is no law requiring the merchant to refund your payments on lay-away purchases. You should ask the merchant whether he will make such a refund before you begin making payments. If the merchant agrees and makes refunds, this agreement should be made in writing and a copy retained by the consumer.

Q: When I opened my new business, I was required to post a surety bond of what I considered to be a large amount before I could be issued a sales tax permit. A friend of mine in a similar business was required to post a much smaller bond. Why are bonding requirements different?

A: The bond is required under the Texas Sales Tax law for all new retail businesses. Normally, the bond amount is equal to three times the level of sales tax that the merchant estimates he will collect during three months. If that estimate proves too high or too low, his bond will be adjusted up or down to reflect his actual tax collections level. This adjustment will be made by the State Comptroller of Public Accounts through the Comptroller's field offices around the state. If the new retail merchant remits his sales tax collections properly during a two-year period, the bond requirement can be removed.

Q: Is it necessary for me to appoint more than one executor in my will, in case the executor dies before I do?

A: No, but under Texas law it is advisable. If the only person named as executor in your will dies before you die, or dies before your estate has been settled, the court can appoint an administrator for the estate when a qualified person applies. However, it will be much less expensive and much more simple to settle your estate if your will names a second person who will take over as independent executor in case the first person dies before your estate has been settled. A court-appointed administrator, unlike an independent executor, must post a surety bond.

Q: My husband is behind in his child support payments — can he still have the right to visit my children?

A: Yes. Child support and visitation rights do not depend on each other. If your husband fails to pay his child support, your remedy would be to ask the court to enforce the child support order. Likewise, if your husband believes you are not fulfilling your obligation to allow him to visit the children as required by the divorce decree, your husband's course of action would be to ask the court to enforce the visitation rights order.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

It Already Hurts . . . Two To One . . . Be On The Alert.

Even if the state were suddenly blessed with ample rainfall, the dry weather of the past several months has already hurt crops and seriously curtailed livestock grazing.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in its weekly weather roundup notes that very little grazing has been available from the state's wheat, oats, and other small grains. Many wheat fields are dying for lack of rain and prospects for a grain crop are diminishing rapidly.

The dry weather is also putting a damper on spring planting plans. Cotton planting is underway in extreme South Texas as is sorghum planting. But the continued lack of moisture is putting farmers further behind in their spring field work.

TWICE AS MANY CATTLE AND CALVES were shipped out of Texas during January than the total of a year ago. According to health certificates from the Texas Animal Health Commission, Texas producers shipped 261,767 cattle and calves to other states. A year ago there were 132,445 cattle and calves shipped out of Texas.

Coming into Texas during the same month were 125,539 cattle and calves. This is about 80,000 less than a year ago.

Cattle and calves marketed through auctions in the state was 15 per cent more than a year ago, although it was 10 per cent less than a month ago.

January hog sales totaled 34,000 head; this is 26 per cent less than a year ago. Sheep and lamb sales at livestock auctions throughout the state in January totaled 64,000; this is 23 per cent above a year ago and 21 per cent above a month ago. Goat sales were 45 per cent higher than a year ago and almost 25 per cent more than a month ago.

LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS throughout the state are being warned again to be on the outlook for scabies. Four outbreaks of cattle scabies were confirmed in three states, including Texas, during January.

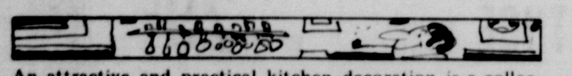
The outbreaks in Texas were found in Taylor and Hudspeth counties. Quarantines were placed on all affected and exposed cattle. The quarantines were lifted, however, after cattle were treated, reinspected, and found free of scabies mite infestations.

Cattlemen are reminded that scabies eradication can be reached only by locating the few remaining infested animals. Livestock producers are requested to inspect their herds regularly for signs of scabies and report suspected scabies to their veterinarian, state or federal animal health official, or county agent.

Scabies is caused by tiny, parasitic mites that puncture the skin of cattle. Mites cause economic losses from hide damage and reduced feed efficiency, but they do not affect the wholesomeness of meat.

Meanwhile, screwworm eradication officials at Mission are also alerting cattlemen that a new screwworm infestation season is approaching for the state.

Continued vigilance for this pest will also be needed to keep the infestations at the lowest possible levels.



An attractive and practical kitchen decoration is a collection of wooden spoons, ladles and paddles hanging on the wall.

ASCS

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz today announced the 1976 target prices for wheat, feed grains and upland cotton. He announced also the 1976 loan rates for wheat and feed grains.

Provisions of the agriculture and consumer protection act of 1973 require that target prices for the 1976 crop be adjusted upward from 1975 levels to reflect increased production costs during 1975. The 1976 loan levels are also being adjusted upward from the minimum levels set by the legislation; these increases reflect approximately the same percentage increases as made in the target prices.

"The target prices and loan rates provide a guaranteed support base while adhering to the principle of reliance on the marketplace for farm income" Secretary Butz said. "Farm income and farm production have reached all-time records under our present market-oriented agricultural policy," he added.

The 1976 Target prices are as follows: Wheat ($bu.) 2.29; Upland Cotton (C/lb.) 43.20; Corn ($bu.) 1.57; Sorghum ($/bu.) 1.49; Barley ($/bu.) 1.28.

The 1976 Loan Rates are as follows: Wheat ($/bu.) 1.50; Corn ($/bu.) 1.25; Sorghum (S/bu.) 1.19, ($/CWT) 2.13; Barley ($/bus.) 1.02; Oats ($/bu.) .60; Rye ($/bu.) 1.00; Soybeans ($/bu.) 2.50.

FmHA Has Funds For New Loans

Farm owners in Milam County can share in some $50 million of funds now available in the nation for loans to develop, conserve, and improve land and water resouces, according to Henry N. Ivey, county supervisory of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Measures to alleviate problems of waste disposal and pollution control on farms may be eligible for financing through this source.

"These funds are available on a first-come, first-serve basis throughout the nation," Ivey said.

He explained that soil and water from FmHA can be used to develop water supplies for home use, livestock watering, or irrigation. The funds also can be used for drainage projects, to install water or waste facilities associated with pollution abatement and control, and to build other structures that contribute to conservation and meet health, safety, and environmental requirements.

Funds also may be used to level land, establish permanent pasture, develop farm forests, and to carry out basic soil treatment practices such as liming, fertilizing, and subsoiling.

These loans may be repaid in terms as long as 40 years with an interest rate of five percent charged on the unpaid principal.

Applications may be obtained at Farmers Home Administration county offices, including the office at 109 W. 2 St. in Cameron.

The man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo and became the subject of a song was Joseph Hobson Jagger, who, in 1886, won over two million francs in eight days.

MILK COW NUMBERS AND MILK PRODUCTION FALL--The number of milk cows on Texas farms dropped to a record low of 320,000 at the end of 1975 and milk production fell five percent. According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, heavy herd culling in the late spring and early summer accounted for the decrease in number of cows.

Milk Cow Numbers Drop to Record Low

AUSTIN--The number of milk cows on Texas farms dropped to 320,000 at the end of 1975, the lowest number on record, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Heavy herd culling, particularly of low-producing animals, in the late spring and early summer accounted for most of the decrease, White said.

The state's dairy farmers began the year with some 345,000 head, and although milk cow numbers have been declining in recent years, White reported that this was the largest decrease ever reported on a year-to-year basis.

According to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, the average number of milk cows was 335,000 last year, compared with 349,000 during 1974.

Production per animal was down 70 pounds from 1974 to 9,615 pounds per cow.

While the annual price paid to farmers for 100 pounds of milk rose 18 cents to $9.40, dairy feed rose one dollar a ton to $143 and alfalfa hay cost around $90 a ton.

White noted that some dairy farmers went out of business because of rising production costs. Last year, Texas lost some 1,000 milk cow operations.

Farmers Can Still Make Tax Adjustments

Farmers and ranchers still have time to make adjustments that could cut down their 1975 tax bills, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"By taking full advantage of income averaging, depreciation, and retirement plan policies, 1975 taxes may be reduced considerably," says the economist.

If your income has increased sharply over the past five years, you may be eligible for income averaging. Take the sum of your 1971 through 1974 taxable incomes, then take 30 percent of that amount. Subtract that figure from the taxable income in 1975. If the difference is more tha $3,000, you are eliegible for income averaging.

Another way to cut down taxes, says Hayenga, is to take the maximum amount of depreciation on machinery, farm equipment, breeding stock and buildings. The depreciation method you select should depend on your 1975 income. If it was high, you may want to take a "fast" depreciation rather than a straight line method.

"The shorter the useful life you assign to an asset, the more depreciation you can take."

Round Hay Bales Are Posing A Safety Problem

One of the fastest moving trends in farm mechanization is the swing to large round bales for hay handling. Dr. Gary S. Nelson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service believes that most new ideas bring new challenges for accident prevenion, and 1,000-pound hay bales are no exception.

"Some accidents have resulted from operators being drawn into the baling machine while in operation, but the more frequent accidents involve handling the bale after its ejection to the ground,' points out Nelson, an agricultural safety engineer.

He cites recent accidents involving three fatalities and one serious injury that exemplify two serious types of handling hazards involving the huge round hay bales. "Two of the accidents were overturns while bales were being transported in modified front-end loaders. The other two occurred when bales rolled down the arms of elevated loaders onto the operators on their tractors."

Many overturns of loader-equipped tractors have been blamed on over-loading the bucket. This transfers weight from the rear to the front axle, making it easy for the tractor chassis to rotate sideways if the rear tire hits an object or drops into a hole. To compensate for this problem, Nelson advises operators to ballast the rear of their tractors with enough weight to keep the rear wheels on the ground.

"Operators must recognize that tractor stability changes when a big bale is being lifted as opposed to lifting the same weight of gravel," explains Nelson. "With big bales, the center of gravity of the lift is higher and more forward--like sliding back on a child's teeter-totter. The same weight that has been handled with ease by the conventional loader can now seriously over-balance the tractor."

The engineer recommends that operators transport the large bales with equipment which utilizes the rear attachment points of a tractor. Special low clearance trailers that pick up bales directly from the ground also reduce risk.

"Even with a well-balanced tractor, caution is still needed in handling these heavy, bulkyloads," emphasizes the Texas A&M University System engineer. "The tractor must be operated on nearly level ground. On unlevel ground, transport the bale in the baler until it can be dropped at a safe location. Never release a bale on a slope where it can roll its way into trouble."

When transporting a bale with a tractor, keep the load close to the ground, cautions Nelson. Avoid the temptation to improve visability by raising the load high enough to see under the bale. Also recognize that at even less than maximum height, a tractor loader becomes especially susceptable to upset while turning, even on level ground. "So keep the load low and the speed slow."

The engineer calls for extra caution when more than one person is around the baler. The rear gates can be hydraulically opened or closed by the operator before a bystander can react to get out of theway. "If you are the bystander, stay clear. If you are the operator, make sure that everyone is clear before activating any controls."

"Any machine designed to gather in bulky material such as hay and compress it to firm censity can do the same to unwary human operators. Balers carry warnings to shut off all power before servicing or clearing the machine. This warning is critical," emphasizes Nelson. "Other common sense safety pointers such as leaving guards in place and keeping hands out of moving parts apply just as they do with other machines."

Hospital Adds Sister Maura To Staff As Office Manager

Sister Maura has recently taken over duties as business office manager at St. Edward - Rischar Memorial Hospital in Cameron.

"We are fortunate to have such an amiable and warm person to take care of such a vital area of our hospital work" declared Sister Jeanette, hospital administrator.

Sr. Maura will be in charge of overall business office duties. Her work will cover admissions, discharges and insurance. She will be working closely with the nursing unit and, of course, the public.

The sister, who calls herself a cajun, grew up in Southwest Louisiana. She came to Cameron after four and one half years as Supervisor of Admissions at St. Frances Cabrini Hospital in Alexandria, La. Before that time she served at both St. Elizabeth and Hotel Dieu Hospitals in Beaumont.

First impressions of Cameron for her included delight at the wide open spaces and fresh air. About the people she stated that she felt they were very warm and from the beginning she felt Cameron people to be very accepting.

SISTER MAURA, newcomer to the staff at St. Edward Rischar Memorial Hospital, admits a patient. She is business office manager for the hospital.

Huffman Stops Yoemen, Mart Wins Tourney

It was hard to tell what really caused the end of the '76 Cameron Yoemen cage season Saturdaymorning in the Regional Tournament at Blinn College. It was a battle among the Yoemen turnovers and Huffman. At the end of the 32 minutes Huffman claimed a 58-55 win over Yoe and advanced to the finals.

In the final game played Saturday, Mart downed Huffman 74-61.

Against Huffman the Yoemen were plagued by more turnovers than field goals, having committed 23 basketball sins.

The only Yoe lead came in the first quarter when they took a short-lived 9-8 takeover. By the end of the first quarter the Huffman Trojans had regained a 16-13 lead. In the quarter Yoe hit 6 of 14 field attempts for 43%.

In the second quarter the Yoemen were showered by mistakes after mistake. By the half the Trojans had extended their lead by 7, 30-22. The Yoemen hit a cool 27% from the field, pumping in 4 of 15 tries.

The Yoemen revenged their first half errors and narrowed the gap to only two points at one time. Huffman was able to lengthen the lead to 6 by the end of the quarter, 40-34. The Yoemen warmed up their percenrage, hitting 5 of 10 for 50%.

Then going into the fourth quarter the Yoemen had to do something that was entirely unfamiliar to their vocabulary, "catch up." The Yoemen would draw within two and the the Trojans would force a turnover. With 1:30 remaining, Yoe cut the Trojan lead to two, 54-52. Huffman stole the ball and made an easy lay-up followed by a missed bucket bythe Yoemen.

It ended short of the Yoe goal of a bid for the state title, 58-55.

Ronnie Bennet led the scoring for the Yoemen with 26 followed by Jafus White and Michael White with 8 each.

In the first half Ronnie brought down 11 offensive and defensive rebounds. In the second half Bennett swept down 4 rebounds to lead the Yoemen with 15. Kenneth Scott followed with 6 rebounds in the morning venture.

From the free throw line the Yoemen hit 9 of 14 attempts while the Trojans hit 12 of 16 tries.

The Mart Panthers will advance to the state tournament in Austin Friday and Saturday. Mart owns a 32-1 season record with the only loss coming from the Yoemen

SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By FORREST GUESS

DUE PROCESS. . .

It was an instant replay of an earlier decision made by the Southwest Conference officials in the matter dealing with two Texas A&M players, Jarvis Williams and Karl Godine.

After a court order to reinstate the two because of a technicality on due process a trial was held for the two last weeks. Now the question remains, was justice met?

Williams and Godine were judged of being guilty of accepting "extras" to attend A&M. The SWC fined the two sith a year-plus suspension and, of course, the public embarassment.

The souce of the problem has not been dealt with. The person or persons who offered such "extras" will never be dealt with. There are three individuals who have been repremanded by the SWC and NCAA.

It's hard to tell an 18 year old that this is a non-no when it seems that all others are on the take. Of course this includes politicians and political leaders as well.

It's a difficult problem and the one on the receiving end is the only one punished. It is a two-way street and both sides should be dealt with. In every area it seems as though everyone has forgotten the word, integrity, and substituted it for "get something for nothing."

Words should be shouted by all sport enthusiastis, "Prosecute" to the fullest and let's begin cleaning up the wrongs in athletics."

YOE CAGERS. . .

It was another heart-breaking season for the Cameron Yoemen. Yoe has suffered their second bid for a state finalist team in this current school year. First in football, next in basketball.

All is never lost, and of course ever y team in the district is envidus of the Yoemen's posotion. It was a goal in both sports, basketball, and football that the teams make it to state.

All the dedication of the team members was not wasted. Again, it was a good season for the Yoe cagers who wee coached by Ken Poole.

The season changes, now the bats and ballshave been brought out, the baseball diamond is shaped up for the opener and the famous Yoe Relays are only a week away.

There is still a lot of "State Material". . .

YOE RELAYS. . .

A dwindling appeal of the Yoe Relays makes the '76 edition the smallest ever. The only cause of the loss of popularity must be understood. All the track teams that have always entered the famous events now seek moremodern track.

The Yoe track isnot a 440 track and many coaches feel that this doesn't help prepare their thin clads for the district meets. Also the track is made of cynders which has lost popularity to the all new all-weather tracks.

What once brought teams from a 200 mile plus radius is barely appealing to class AA, A, and B schools.

Modernizationof the track facilitie will reignite the old time interest of the once famous Yoe Relays. The modernization must include extending the track to a full 440 and retopping with an all weather surface.

OJT Girls To Run In Cotton Boll Relays

The O. J. Thomas girls will enter the Cotton Boll Relays at Taylor. According to girls coach Janice Swope the girls will only run the 440 and 880. The Cotton Boll Relays has been strictly boys relays.

The OJT girls will be running against teams from Taylor, Rockdale, Thorndale, and Pflugerville. The girls will run after the 440 and 880 boys prelims.

On March 12 the OJT girls tracksters will run in the Rockdale Relays and on March 9 they will travel to Gatesville. Before the district meet the OJT fems will run in the Taylor Jr. High Relays on March 26. The district meet will be hosted by Austin Westlake on April 9.

Baptists Grow Bigger In 1975

DALLAS

The state's largest protestant denomination grew even bigger in members and money during 1975.

According to statistics released this week, the Baptist General Convention of Texas now has 2,073,841 members, compared with 2,037,791 a year ago.

That would make one out of every six Texans a member of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

In funds, the members contributed a whopping $243,169,125 in all church causes during 1975, compared with $219,300,076, in 1974.

The figures, prepared by Dr. W. E. Norman, BGCT statistician, reveal the denomination also increased in the number of churches affiliated, while declining slightly in the number of missions.

At year's end, 3,914 churches were part of the BGCT, which is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's largest protestant denomination.

The affiliations compare with 3,852 last year. That is a gain of 62 congregations.

In missions, the denomination's churches support 363 missions, as compared with 380 last year.

For the second straight year, the denomination declined slightly in the number of baptism,s recording 58,828 new converts as compared with 58,908 last year.

Increases were recorded in Sunday School enrollment, Sunday School average attendance, choir enrollment, Woman's Missionary Union enrollment, total receipts, Cooperative Program receipts and designated gifts.

Declines were noted in Church Training enrollment and attendance and Baptist Men enrollment.

Service Set At First Methodist

The first Sunday of the Lenten season will be observed at the worship services at the Maysfield and First Methodist churches of Cameron. Hymns will be sung and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. The scripture lesson will be read from Matthew 4:1-11.

A Lenten Bible study on the "Prophets" will be held on the four Sunday afternoons of March at 5 p.m. There will be special time of singing, songs and films for the children and a nursery will be provided. The study sessions will conclude in an hour after which refreshments will be served.

Confirmation classes for children and youth will be held on March 21st and 28th and on April 4th and 11th at 10 a.m.

Special Lenten music will be presented by the chancel choir that is directed by Mrs. Tommie Corley and accompanied by Mrs. Hilliard Thomas. Rev. Stanley Vodicka Jr. will conduct the services.

Consumer Market Report

Beef and dry bean prices are two items "on the move" in Texas grocery stores currently -- with beef prices steady - to - slightly - higher and dry bean prices lower.

"Beef specials are scattered, but they primarily concern chuck roasts and steaks, sirloin and T-bone steaks and liver," Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt said.

"Certain classes of dry beans are in excessively large supply this year -- pinto beans, pinks, small reds, kidney beans," she explained.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"At poultry counters, some stores are featuring fryer chickens -- and turkeys have attractive prices. Large - size turkeys (16 pounds and up) are the best value.

"Fish is a 'good-value' item to look for at frozen food sections -- it has less fat, less saturated fat, more polyunsaturated fat, less cholesterol, and it is a good source of numerous minerals," the specialist said.

"In produce departments, grapefruit and oranges continue in good supply with reasonable prices and excellent quality - - while apples and pears are economical."

Vegetables in good supply at the most economical prices are cabbage, carrots, hard - shell squash and turnips -- along with broccoli, cooking greens and rutabagas.

Also, some stores are offering "fine values" on canned fruits and vegetables, Mrs. Clyatt added.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS

In deciding on purchase of "institutional-" or "restaurant - size" No. 10 cans of many fruits and vegetables, now in some stores, consider immediate needs -- and the large can's "unit price" versus that of regular household - size containers.

For feeding the Boy Scout troop or making a church supper, the No. 10 can may offer a savings.

Do you gain any real comfort from that old cliche about dark clouds having silver linings? Who can peel a cloud to find its happy lining?

But frustration has been a blessing to many men. It has driven self-centered souls to seek a new fulcrum for life. It has brought men to God . . . acknowledging human failure . . . seeking divine strength.

And as they have found in the Church comfort and courage they have learned anew the spiritual meaning of defeat and victory.

The One that this world crucified is King of kings. Beyond a cross and a crown of thorns our greatest aspirations await us.

"SPRING INTO SPRING AND SUMMER 1976 with Today's Fashions and Fabrics is the title of a series of programs to be held four areas in the county. The programs will center on new fashions, fabric ideas, new construction hints and new notions. These programs are for both the home sewer and the person that buys their clothes.

The same program will be presented four times in the county. The first program will be given on March 8, 2 p.m. at the New Salem Home Demonstration Club House in Fair Park in Rockdale.

The next program will be in Thorndale at 10 a.m. on March 9 at the meeting room at St. Paul's Lutheran Church School.

The third program will be given in Buckholts at the Home Economics Department of Buckholts High School at 2 p.m. on March 9.

The final program will be at the Cameron Community Center on March 10 at 10 a.m.

These programs are open to everyone interested and there is no charge. These programs will be sponsored by the Family Living Committee of Milam County and the Milam County Extension Service.

PRESERVING AT HOME is the theme for the special interest program to be held March 18th at the Community Center in Cameron.

This program will be held at 9:30 a.m. and is sponsored by the Ladies Committee of the Milam County Farm Bureau and the Milam County Extension Service.
